

Kate Bush - The Wedding List

```
And when it's all over you'll roll over tom:
                                                        The butt of my gun
             Abm (forma dos acordes no tom de Gm )
                                                       Dm Am Dm
Capostraste na 1ª casa
                                                       One in your belly, and one for Rudi
                                                        Dm Am Dm
                                                       You got what you gave by the heel of my bootie

Dm Am Dm C

Bang bang, out like an old cherootie
          [Primeira Parte]
             Dm
No, I'll never give the hunt up
                                                       Gm D2
                                                       I'm coming for you!
     D2
 And I won't muck it up
Dm Am Dm Am
                                                       [Pré-Refrão]
 Somehow this was it, I knew
   Am Dm Am
 Maybe fate wants you dead too
                                                       All of the headlines said "Passion Crime
   Am Dm
                                                       Dm Dm
 We've come together in the very same room
                                                       Newly Weds, Groom Shot Dead
   Gm D2
And I'm coming for you!
                                                       Mystery Man, God Help the Bride
                                                        Dm C D2
                                                       She's a wi___dow, all in red
[Segunda Partel
                                                           Bb7M
              Dm
                                                       With his red still wet"
Do you think I'd ever let you
Gm D2
                                                       [Refrão 2]
 Get away with it, huh?
                                                                                       Dm Bb7M Bb7M Gm7
Dm Am Dm Am
He swooned in warm maroon
                                                       But she sure got him on the wedding list
   Dm Am
                                                                          Dm Bb7M Bb7M Gm7
There's gas in your barrel, and I'm flooded with doom Dm C
You've made a wake of our honeymoon

Gm D2
                                                       I got him on the wedding list!
                                                                         Dm Bb7M Bb7M Gm7
                                                       I got him and I did not miss

Dm Bb7M Bb7M Gm7
   Gm D2
And I'm coming for you!
                                                       I pinned him on the wedding list!
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                       [Final]
Dm E
                                                          Bb7M
                       Gm7
All of the headlines said "Passion Crime
                                                        And after she shot the guy
                                                       Dm Bb7M Gm7
Dm Dm
                                                        She committed suicide
Newly Weds, Groom Shot Dead
               Gm
                                                                  Dm
Mystery Man, God Help the Bride
                                                       I'm coming, Rudi!
                                                                 Bb7M Gm7
    Dm C D2
                                                       And later, when they analysed
She's a wi__dow, all in red
    Bb7M
                                                       They found a little one inside
                                                          Bb7M Abm7
               Gm
With his red still wet"
                                                           Bb7M Gm7
[Refrão 1]
                                                        It must have been Rudi's child
                                                       I shot, shot, shot him honey!
She said
                        Dm Bb7M Bb7M Gm7
                                                          Bb7M
                                                       Never mind, she got the guy
I'll put him on the wedding list
                        Dm Bb7M Bb7M Gm7
I'll put him on the wedding list
                                                       He hit the ground, Rudi!
                                                        Bb7M Gm7
                      Dm Bb7M Bb7M Gm7
I'll get him and I will not miss
                                                       An eye for an eye
                                                        ( Dm Bb7M Bb7M Gm7 )
                                                       Ashes to ashes to ashes Dm Bb7M Gm7
[Terceira Parte]
                                                       An eye for an eye

( Dm Bb7M Bb7M Gm7 )
I hit him, hit him!
Dm Bb7M Gm7
                   Bb
             Dm
And now, as I'm coming for you
Gm D2
 All I see is Rudi
                                                       An eye for an eye
   Am Dm
 I die with him, again and again
                                                           Dm Bb7M Gm7
   Dm Am Dm Am
                                                       Rudi!
Dm Bb7M Gm7
                                                       Rudi!
                                                       ( Dm Bb7M Bb7M Gm7 )
                                                                           I'm coming, coming, coming, honey!
Gm D2
I'm coming for you!
                                                        An eye for an eye
[Quarta Parte]
                                                       Bb7M Gm7
                                                          Rudi!
               Dm
```

Acordes

