

Keshi - Bys

```
Say you wanna talk til' the sunrise
                            tom:
Intro: G D7 A Em
                                                                I don?t really mind if we stayin' up
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                Say you got work, but it?s alright
                                                                Hope I make you feel a little better (0h!)
Said you tired of the distance
                                                                Singing you love songs
You tired of the fake love
                                                                Tell me I got you all wrong
Say you don?t really miss him
                                                                So you can run away
But I don?t really blame ya
                                                                [Refrão]
Don?t need nobody else
Don?t need nobody help, mmm
                                                                So afraid to give and take your pain
                                                                (Pull me close, love me not
You get it on your own
So why you beside yourself?
                                                                When you low, hit me up babe
[Refrão]
                                                                So afraid to give your love away
                                                                (Take your clothes, love me lots
So afraid to give and take your pain
                                                                On my phone, hit me up babe)
(Know better, but I pay no mind
                                                                [Pré-Refrão]
Get me inside ?fore I go one time)
So afraid to give your love away
                                                                You don?t gotta worry 'bout nothin'
(Know better but I pay no mind
                                                                Baby girl, you know that I ain't leavin'
Get me inside ?fore I go one time)
                                                                Don?t cry, alright?
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                                Don?t cry, alright?
                                                                [Refrão]
You don?t gotta worry 'bout nothin'
Baby girl, you know that I ain't leavin'
                                                                Baby, go make yo' mind
Don?t cry, alright?
                                                                Baby, go make yo' mind, ahh
Don?t cry, alright?
                                                                Say it?s gon' take some tim?
[Refrão]
                                                                Keep me 'round by your side, yeah (Uh)
                                                                Say you wanna sp?nd the night
Baby, go make yo' mind
                                                                Then you all undecided (Ayy!)
Baby, go make yo' mind, ahh
                                                                Baby, go make yo' mind
Say it?s gon' take some tim?
                                                                Baby, go make yo' mind
Keep me 'round by your side, yeah (Uh)
                                                                [Final]
Say you wanna sp?nd the night
Then you all undecided (Ayy!)
                                                                You don't gotta wo- you don't gotta wo-
Baby, go make yo' mind
                                                                Girl, you know that I- girl, you know that I-
Baby, go make yo' mind
                                                                You don't gotta wo- you don't gotta wo-
( G D7 A E7 )
                                                                Girl, you know that I- girl, you know that I-
[Segunda Parte]
```

Acordes

