

Khalid - 8teen

```
Tom: Db
Intro: Gb Ab
                                                               I wish it were the old days (oh I wish it were the old days)
                                                                            Gh
                                                               'Cause I was eighteen
Woke up a little too late this morning
But I think I'll be okay
                                                               And I still lived with my parents
I'll be okay
                                                               Yeah they're not like yours
Damn, my car still smells like marijuana
                                                               Well yours were more understanding
                                                                      Gb
                                                               I never fell in love
My mom is gonna kill me
Gonna kill me
                                                               I saved those feelings for you
Traffic's backed up from corner to corner
                                                               When we did all the stupid shit that young kids do
So I guess I'll hit the highway
                                                               Just me and you, ooh, ooh, ooh
                                                               You, ooh, ooh, ooh, ooh
The highway
Gb
Shake away all the stress off my shoulders
                                                               Just me and you, ooh, ooh, ooh, ooh
Gonna have a good day
                                                               Let's do all the stupid shit that young kids do
Ab
A good day
                                                               It's me and you
                                                               Gb
Because I'm eighteen
                                                               You
And I still live with my parents
                                                               You, ooh, ooh, ooh
                                                               Ah
Yeah they're not like yours
                                                               You
                                                               Just me and you
Well yours are more understanding
          Gb
                                                               Gb
I've never fell in love
                                                               You
I saved those feelings for you
                                                               You, ooh, ooh, ooh
So let's do all the stupid shit that young kids do
                                                               Hey?hey
It?s me and you, ooh, ooh, ooh
                                                               Because I'm eighteen
You, ooh, ooh, ooh
                                                               And I still live with my parents
           Gb
Just me and you, ooh, ooh, ooh, ooh
                                                               Yeah they're not like yours
Let's do all the stupid shit that young kids do
                                                               Well yours are more understanding
                                                                          Gb
No I've never really been the smartest
                                                               I've never fell in love
Yeah I've made my mistakes
                                                               I saved those feelings for you
Ab
                                                               So let's do all the stupid shit that young kids do
Mv mistakes
You were there when times were at their darkest
                                                               It?s me and you, ooh, ooh, ooh
                                                                           Ab
                                                               It's me and you, ooh, ooh, ooh
Always showing me the way
Ah
                                                                           Gb
Lead the way
                                                               Just me and you, ooh, ooh, ooh
                                                               Let's do all the stupid shit that young kids do
Your love seems to cut me deep, the sharpest
You'll always have a part of me
                                                                           Gb
                                                               It's me and you, ooh, ooh
Ab
A part of me
                                                                       Ab
                                                               Noooo
Losing you has always been the hardest
                                                                           Gb
                                                               Just me and you, ooh, ooh (fade)
```

Acordes

