

Kim Walker - Throne Room

```
Intro: D Bm A
                                                              With angels and saints
                                                              And all I can say is
Dream after dream, You are
                                                              Holy, holy, holy are You God
Speaking to me, breathing
Word after word of kingdom come
                                                              My heart can't contain
Here at Your feet, I can
                                                              The weight of Your name
See the unseen, truly
                                                              And all I can say is
                                                              Gbm E
Holy, holy, holy are You
One look at You and I'm undone
I run to the throne room
                                                              Interlúdio 2x: D Bm Gbm E
 Bm
I run to the throne room
                                                              Ponte:
                                                                           Bm
                                                               I run to the throne room
And I fall on my face
                                                              Before You, the only One
    Bm
With angels and saints
                                                                          Bm
                                                               I run to the throne room
And all I can say is
                                                              Before You, I'm overcome
Holy, holy, holy are You God
                                                                         Bm
                                                              I run to the throne room
My heart can't contain
                                                              Before You, the only One
                                                                D Bm
   Rm
The weight of Your name
                                                               I run to the throne room
                                                                     E D
                                                                                         Gbm E
And all I can say is
                                                              Before You, I'm overcome
Holy, holy, holy are You
                                                              Refrão:
                                                               And I fall on my face
Grace upon grace, all my
                                                              With angels and saints
Fear falls away, only
                                                              And all I can say is
Your perfect love for me remains, oh
                                                              Holy, holy, holy are You God
Time after time, You stay
                                                              My heart can't contain
Close by my side, burning
Fire inside I can't contain
                                                              The weight of Your name
                                                              Bm
I run to the throne room
                                                              And all I can say is
I run to the throne room
                                                              Holy, holy, holy are You
                                                              Final: D Bm Gbm E D Bm Gbm E D
And I fall on my face
```

Acordes

