 In your eyes, I'm alive
                                                                Wasn't looking for love 'till I found you
  Inside you're beautiful
Something so unusual
                                                                Ooh na-na yeah

  In your eyes
I know I'm home (yeah)

Changing what I thought I knew
                                                                Ooh na-na yeah
 I'll be yours for a thousand lives
                                                                For love, 'till I found you (oh)

When I'm flying in your cage
                                                                    Fm
I'm diving in deep
                                                                I'm free as a bird
And I'm riding with no brakes
                                                                When I'm flying in your cage
And I'm bleeding in love
                                                                I'm diving in deep
You're swimming in my veins
                                                                And I'm riding with no brakes
You got me now
                                                                And I'm bleeding in love
                                                                You're swimming in my veins
Been waiting for a lifetime for you
                                                                You got me now
Been breaking for a lifetime for you
                                                                Been waiting for a lifetime for you
Wasn't looking for love 'till I found you
                                                                Been breaking for a lifetime for you
Ooh na-na yeah
For love, 'till I found you (oh)
                                                                Wasn't looking for love 'till I found you
                                                                Ooh na-na yeah
 Skin to skin
                                                                For love, 'till I found you (oh)
Breathe me in
                                                                Been waiting for a lifetime for you
  Feeling your kiss on me
Lips are made of ecstasy
                                                                Been breaking for a lifetime for you
 I'll be yours for a thousand nights (a thousand lights)
                                                                Wasn't looking for love 'till I found you
                                                                Ooh na-na yeah
I'm free as a bird
                                                                For love, 'till I found you (oh)
When I'm flying in your cage (so lost)
I'm diving in deep
                                                                       Wasn't looking for love 'till I found you
And I'm riding with no brakes (no luck)
                                                                Ooh na-na yeah
And I'm bleeding in love
                                                                For love, 'till I found you (oh)
