Here's a story about the rules of death and glory
 To be learned by heart by all children of men
 It's the hour of the morning on the day after the dawning
 When the sun they said would never set finally set again
 Was it cromwell or orwell who first led you to the stairwell
 Which leads only forever to kingdom come
 Rushed alone by guiding hands whispers of the promised land
 They wished you luck and handed you a gun
 Life could be so handsome
 Life could be so gay
 We're going nowhere
 But nowhere, nowhere's on our way
 In the pub that night racking out the lines of shite
 Putting to right all of the world's great wrongs
 Yes we thought that they were brothers then they half-murdered each other
 Then they did a karaoke turn and murdered our best song
 Told the governor's wife about the last night of his life
 She turned away in tears called you a liar

Where are all the old dreams now? the batallions, once so proud
 Lost in some old song and hanging on the old barbedwire
 Life could be so handsome
 It's so good to be okay
 We're going nowhere
 But nowhere, nowhere's on our way

Nowhere in the institutions did they teach that revolution

    Was something that could ever come to pass

    Oh we tried one, once before was the king's head on the floor

    And we got booted out the boozier cause someone smashed the glass

    Life could be so handsome

    Life could be okay

    We're going nowhere

    But nowhere, nowhere's on our way

    Life could be so handsome

    It's all gonna be okay

    We're going nowhere

    Cause nowhere, nowhere's on our way

    Nowhere's on our way
