

Lil Nas X - Void

|              |                |            |   |
|--------------|----------------|------------|---|
|              | tom:           |            |   |
|              | E       |            | Dbm                              |
|              | [Tab - Riff 1] |            | Hold up, hold up                        |
| Parte 1 De 4 |                |            | [Riff 1]                                |
|              |                | E   | Abm                              |
|              |                | D   | I find it hard to get                   |
|              |                |            | Dbm                              |
|              |                |            | Way to hard to live                     |
| Parte 2 De 4 |                |            | [Riff 1]                                |
|              |                | E   | Abm                              |
|              |                | D   | Tell me what you know                   |
|              |                |            | Dbm                              |
|              |                |            | Now, before I go                        |
| Parte 3 De 4 |                |            | [Riff 2]                                |
|              |                | E   |   |
|              |                |            | Oh, Blue                                |
|              |                |            | Abm                              |
|              |                | D   | I wrote for you                         |
|              |                |            | Dbm                              |
|              |                |            | To say I'm gonna run away               |
|              |                |            | From home                               |
| Parte 2 De 4 |                |            | [Riffs 1 e 2]                           |
|              |                | E   |   |
|              |                |            | Oh, Blue                                |
|              |                |            | Abm                              |
|              |                | D   | I love you too                          |
|              |                |            | Dbm                              |
|              |                |            | But, today I'm gonna run away           |
|              |                |            | From home                               |
| Parte 3 De 4 |                |            | [Riff 1]                                |
|              |                | E   |   |
|              |                |            | Oh, I weep through the night            |
|              |                |            | Abm                              |
|              |                |            | Can't find a love who loves me the same |
|              |                |            | Or as much as you do                    |
|              |                | D   | Hold up                                 |
|              |                |            | Dbm                              |
|              |                |            | Hold up, hold up                        |
|              |                |            | [Riff 1]                                |
|              |                | E   |   |
|              |                |            | Oh, I reach out my hand, hoping that    |
|              |                |            | They'll see                             |
|              |                | Abm | Abm                              |
|              |                | D   | I'm more than what everyone tells me    |
|              |                |            | Hold up                                 |
|              |                |            | Dbm                              |
|              |                |            | Hold up, hold up                        |
|              |                |            | [Riff 1]                                |
|              |                | E   |   |
|              |                |            | See, I'm getting tired of the way       |
|              |                |            | I've been living                        |
|              |                |            | Abm                              |
|              |                |            | I'd rather die than to live with        |
|              |                |            | These feelings                          |
|              |                | D   | Stuck in this world where there's       |
|              |                |            | So much to prove                        |
|              |                |            | Dbm                              |
|              |                |            |   |
|              |                | E   |   |
|              |                |            | It seems so much out of reach           |
|              |                |            | The place I want to be                  |
|              |                | Abm | Abm                              |
|              |                | D   | Whoever thought I'd get there anyway    |
|              |                |            | Hold up                                 |

Every win gives you more
Room to lose

[Riff 2]

It's too many ups and downs on the ride
I spent inordinate 'mounts of time
Trapped in a lonely, loner life
Looking for love where I'm denied

[Riff 1]

E I find it hard to get Abm
D Way too hard to live Dbm

[Riff 1]

E Tell me what you know Abm
D Now, before I go Dbm

[Riff 2]

Acordes

E
Oh, Blue
I wrote for you Abm
D
To say I'm gonna run away
From home Dbm

[Riff 1]

E
Oh, Blue
I love you too Abm
D
But, today I'm gonna run away
From home Dbm

[Riff 1]

Away from home
Ah, oh
Today I'm gonna run away
Today I'm gonna run away