

Marina And The Diamonds - Solitaire

```
Tom: Bb
                                                       Oh my heart, it became so hardened
               Dm
                                                               Dm Bb F Gm
Don't wanna talk anymore
I'm obsessed with silence
                                                      Hard like a rock, cold like a stone, white like a diamond,
             Dm
                                                      black like coal
I go home and I lock my door
                                                                        Bb F Gm
                                                              Dm
                                                       Cut like a jewel, yeah I repair myself when you're not there
      Cm
I can hear the sirens
                                                        Bb F Gm
                                                                       Eb Bb F
                                                       Solitaire, something you consider rare
  Gm
I see buildings and bars from the window
                                                            Gm Eb
                                                      I don't wanna be compared
               Cm
And I listen to the wind blow
                                                      Bb F
   Gm
                                                      Yeah
                                                             Gm Eb
I see people and cars covered in gold
           Cm
                                                      With that cheap shimmering glitter
And I'm happy to be on my own
                                                      Bb F Cm
                                                      Solitaire
                   F Gm
        Dm Bb
Hard like a rock, cold like a stone, white like a diamond,
                                                      And all the other jewels around me
black like coal

Bb F Gm
                                                         Gm
                                                       They astounded me at first
Cut like a jewel, yeah I repair myself when you're not there
 Bb F Gm Eb Bb F
                                                       I covered up my heart in boundaries
Solitaire, something you consider rare
                                                                Gm
                                                       And all the fakes they called me cursed
    Gm Eb
I don't wanna be compared
                                                                Eb
Bb F
Yeah
                                                       But I'm not cursed, I'm not cursed
                                                                        Bb F Gm Eb
             Eb
                                                      I was just covered in dirt
        Gm
With that cheap shimmering glitter
                                                         F Gm Eb
F Gm Cm
Bb F Cm
Solitaire
                                                          Bb F Gm
                 Dm
                                                                           Fb
I'm in love with the ice blue
                                                       Solitaire, something you consider rare
      Cm
                                                           Gm Eb
Grey skies of England
                                                       I don't wanna be compared
                                                      Bb F
                 Dm
And I'll admit all I wanna do is get drunk in silence
                                                      Yeah
                      Dm
                             F
                                                              Gm
Watch my life u-unfold all around me, like a beautiful garden
                                                      With that cheap shimmering glitter
                       Dm
I see flowers so tall they surround me
                                                      Solitaire
Acordes
     вь
```

