

Maroon 5 - Feelings

```
Intro: Eb B B Db Eb Abm B Db
                                                               If you want me, take me home and let me use you
                                                               I know he doesn't satisfy you like I do
                                                               And does he know that there's nobody quite like you
Verso:
                                                               So let me tell you all the things he never told you, yeah
You and me and all that wine
                                                               Refrão:
Losing my collar down this fly
                                                                            Abm
                                                               I got these feelings for you \,
Every guy that passes by
                                                                           Db
                                                               And I can't help myself no more
Look at her, look at her oh
                                                                            Abm
                                                               Can't fight these feelings for you
And you say that it's not right
                                                                           Db
                                                               No I can't help myself no more
But where does he think you are tonight
Does he know your nasty side
                                                               I...I
Look at her, look at her oh
                                                                     Db
Pré-Refrão:
                                                               Can't help myself no more
                                                                     Abm
If you want me, take me home and let me use you
I know he doesn't satisfy you like I do
                                                                     Db
            Fb
And does he know that there's nobody quite like you
                                                               Ι...Ι
So let me tell you all the things he never told you, yeah
                                                               Ponte:
Refrão:
                                                               No I can't wait much longer
            Abm
I got these feelings for you
                                                               It needs to happen now
                                                                                        Ebm
          Db
And I can't help myself no more
                                                               Cause I can't spend the rest of my life chasing you around
             Abm
Can't fight these feelings for you
                                                               I want to get much closer
           Db
No I can't help myself no more
                                                               You need to tell me how
     Abm
                                                                           Db
                                                               Baby, how, how
I...I
                                                               Babe cause I
I...I
     Db
                                                               Refrão:
I...I
                                                                            Abm
                                                               I got these feelings for you
                                                                           Db
                                                               And I can't help myself no more
You and me let's go all night
                                                                             Abm
                                                               Can't fight these feelings for you
Going so high, we fuck the sky
                                                                           Db
                                                               No I can't help myself no more
Come with me now, fuck that guy
                                                                          Abm
                                                               I've got these feelings for you (I got this feeling for you)
Look at her, look at her oh
                                                               I got this feeling for you
Now you flash that sexy smile
                                                                             Abm
                                                               Can't fight these feelings for you
And tell me I gotta wait a while
                                                                           Db
                                                               No I can't help myself no more
And it makes me lose my mind
                                                                    Abm
                                                               I...I
Look at her, look at her oh
                                                               I...I
Pré-Refrão:
                                                               I...I
                                                                       ...That's fine
```

Acordes

