We're too young to be confused we're too old to be amused would you lean on me if you had to lean on something?
would you?

It's too cold to catch a fire lay our burdens on the pyre maybe we could make up an answer to their questions, before they do.

They'll do what they've been told
under the landslide
we'll pave our way with gold
under the moonlight
rain washed away the coals turned all the red white we'd never be at home
under the landslide

So long, where did you go?
turn around and say hello would you see through me if you had to see through something?
would you?

Then again I'd see you smile fix this heart just for a while , if we could make up an answer to those questions,
would you?

under the landslide
under the moonlight
under the landslide
