

Merrell Twins - Runner Runner

```
I put my heart into the clouds
m (com acordes na forma de \operatorname{Em} )
                                                                And I could see that I was heading right to you
Capostraste na 2ª casa
Let's break away tonight (tonight)
                                                                We are never coming down (down, down)
Runaway like it doesn't even matter
                                                                I know you feel the same
(Matter, matter)
                                                                As we're screaming runner runner
Take me for a ride (ride, ride)
                                                                Kiss my face
Make me feel better
                                                                Every time we touch
(Feel better, feel better)
                                                                You're rushing through my veins
We're making our escape
                                                                Every piece of me wants you here
Step on the pedal like it
                                                                To stay
                                                                We don't really care if
Don't cost a dollar (dollar, dollar)
                                                                No one's listening
We're driving in the rain (rain, rain)
Let's wash away our pain
                                                                As we're screaming runner runner
                                                                I wanna be dangerous
As we're screaming runner runner
                                                                I'm taking a risk on us
Kiss my face
                                                                Wherever our love falls
Every time we touch
                                                                We stand tall
You're rushing through my veins
                                                                As we're screaming runner, runner
Every piece of me wants you here
                                                                Watching the miles fly by
                                                                We don't even have to try
We don't really care if
                                                                We're writing our own rules
No one's listening
                                                                We can't lose
As we're screaming runner runner
                                                                As we're screaming runner, runner
I wanna be dangerous
                                                                (Runner runner, runner runner)
I'm taking a risk on us
                                                                Screaming runner runner
Wherever our love falls
                                                                (Runner runner, runner runner)
We stand tall
                                                                Screaming runner runner
As we're screaming runner runner
                                                                (Runner runner, runner runner)
Watching the miles fly by
                                                                Screaming runner runne-er
We don't even have to try
                                                                oh oh oh oh
                                                                                    D
We're writing our own rules
                                                                oooh oooh oooh oooh oooh
We can't lose
As we're screaming runner runner
                                                                I wanna be dangerous
                                                                I am taking a risk on us
Never wanna hide (hide)
                                                                Wherever our love falls
From the moment that you taste a little freedom
                                                                We stand tall
(Little freedom, little freedom)
                                                                As we're screaming runner, runner
More than just a hike (hike, hike)
                                                                Watching the miles fly by
It gives you something to believe in
                                                                We don't even have to try
(Believe in, believe in)
                                                                We're writing our own rules
```

Oferecimento Lojalele.com.br

We can't lose

As we're screaming runner, runner

Em Screaming runner runner

C
Screaming runner runner Screaming runner runner oh oh oh oh

Acordes

