Intro: C G Am C G Am
                                                                   G
                                                                             C
                                                                                  G Am
                                                                      Am
                                                              Yeah, yeah yeah! yeah, yeah yeah!
Julie puts her make up on her face every day
                                                              Yeah, yeah yeah! yeah, yeah yeah!
            Am
                                C
She's a woman, Yes, I know, She's a woman, even so
                         G C
                                                             On my way back home I tried with Julie again
She's the talk of all the USA Oh, yeah She's the talk of all
                                                                          Am
the USA
                                                              She's a woman, Yes, I know, She's a woman, even so
                                                                                      G C (CGAmCGAm)
                                                             She's the talk of all the USA Oh, yeah She's the talk of all
                                                              the USA
I went out with Julie to a party one night
              Am
                                  С
She's a woman, Yes, I know, She's a woman, even so
                                                             In the car with remote controlled hands
                                  \mathsf{Am}
                                                              I knew that little Julie, she would understand
She's the talk of all the USA Oh, yeah She's the talk of all
                                                             When I got there before my very eyes
                                                              I'll tell you man, I got myself a big surprise
I was mad, I completely turned blind
She wouldn't let me love her, and it blew my mind
                                                              Julie had that something other girls didn't have
                                                                           Am
                                                              She's a woman, no, no, no, She's a woman, no, no, no
Julie said: ?Man, I must be very sure?
She told me that she'd never been in love before
                                                             She's the talk of all the USA Oh, yeah She's the talk of all
                                                              the USA
Then I put my coat on, we decided to go
                                                                       \mathsf{Am}
                                                             Yeah, yeah, yeah! yeah, yeah, yeah!
                                  C
She's a woman, yes, I know, She's a woman, even so
                                                                       Am
                                                                               C G
                                                                                        Αm
                                                             Yeah, yeah! yeah, yeah, yeah!
                                                                      Am
                                                                              C G
She's the talk of all the USA Oh, yeah She's the talk of all Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah!
