

NeverShoutNever - Red Ballon

```
Tom: D
                                                                The bigger picture staring back at me
A lonely red balloon
                                                                Monday's my weekend
Tied down to his worries
                                                                Tuesday's alright
Dreams of taking flight
                                                                Hey! Hey! I'm ready!
                                                                It's go time! Go time!
Slowly moving out of sight
                                                                Green is my color
To a sky of curious blue
                                                                 Sunshine's my sky
Infinite, inviting
                                                                Hey! hey! It's go time!
A prisoner of self doubt
                                                                It's go time! Go time!
He whispers to himself:
                                                                Hey! hey! I'm ready!
Why can't I cut the ribbon tied around my neck?
                                                                It's go...
          Gbm
Then maybe I could finally breathe
                                                                Gbm
                                                                Above the atmosphere
Then maybe I could finally see
                                                                 There's no separation here
The bigger picture staring back at me
                                                                To vision it's illusion
Monday's my weekend
                                                                It's all one big balloon
Tuesday's alright
                                                                A round goodbye!
Hey! Hey! I'm ready!
                                                                Monday's my weekend
It's go time! Go time!
                                                                Tuesday's alright
Green is my color
                                                                Hey! Hey! I'm ready!
Sunshine's my sky
                                                                It's go time! Go time!
Hey! Hey! It's go time!
                                                                Green is my color
It's go time! Go time!
                                                                Sunshine's my sky
Hey! Hey! I'm ready!
                                                                Hey! hey! It's go time!
It's go time! Go time!
                                                                 It's go time! Go time!
                                                                Hey! hey! I'm ready!
A storm goes through the city
                                                                It's go time! Go time!
Towards the lonely red balloon
                                                                The bigger picture
Ratter tattered ribbon
                                                                 Everything is staring back at me
Lost it's grip and off he flew
                                                                The bigger picture
Towards the sky of lightning
                                                                Everything is
He thundered through and through
                                                                Everything is
Fireworks like Independence Day
                                                                 The bigger picture
                                                                 Everything is staring back at me
Whoop dee doo
                                                                The bigger picture
Up so high without the noose
                                                                Everything is
That used to choke my neck
                                                                Everything is
         Gbm
Now that I can finally breathe
                                                                Everything is
Now that I can finally see
                                                                Everything
```

Acordes

