

Niall Horan - Slow Hands

Intro: C Am
                                                               I, I know
                                                               Yeah I already know that there ain't no stopping
  We should take this back to my place
                                                                 Your plans and those slow hands (woo)
  That's what she said right to my face
                                                                     Fingertips putting on a show
  'Cause I want you bad, yeah I want you baby
                                                                     Got me now and I can't say no
  I've been thinking 'bout it all day
                                                                     Wanna be with you all alone
  And I hope you feel the same way (yeah)
                                                               Take me home, take me home
  'Cause I want you bad, yeah I want you baby
                                                                     Fingertips putting on a show
Slow, slow hands
                                                                     Can't you tell that I want you baby
Like sweat dripping down our dirty laundry
                                                               Yeah, slow hands
No, no chance
                                                               Like sweat dripping down our dirty laundry
That I'm leaving you without you on me
                                                               No, no chance
I, I know
                                                               That I'm leaving you without you on me
Yeah I already know that there ain't no stopping
 Your plans and those slow hands (woo)
                                                               Yeah I already know that there ain't no stopping
    Slow hands
                                                                 Slow hands
( C Am )
                                                               Like sweat dripping down our dirty laundry
  I just wanna take my time
 We could do this baby, all night (yeah)
                                                               That I'm leaving you without you on me
 'Cause I want you bad, yeah I want you baby
                                                               I, I know
                                                               Yeah I already know that there ain't no stopping
Slow, slow hands
                                                                                    G (mute)
                                                                 Your plans and those slow hands (woo)
Like sweat dripping down our dirty laundry
No, no chance
                                                                    Your slow hands
That I'm leaving you without you on me
                                                                    Oooh, slow hands
