

Nine Inch Nails - Just Like You Imagined

Tom: F
Intro: Piano arranged for guitar:

with this for 4 bars:

Bass:

Cut for 4 bars to synth playing Fig1 and vocals

Then, (this is the really fucked part) 4 bars

Rythm synth (guitar): (Fig 1)

I'm guessing there's some synth and distorted guitar playing something using these notes:

Lead Guitar 1: play for 7 bars

use a pitch bender/trace:

Distorted Guitar 1: (use a trace effect or a pitchbender set down an octave and pull up)

Then layering up on synth and distorted guitar:

come in after 3 bars of lead guitar and play for 4 bars

You can build the D string notes into powerchords towards the end and emphasise the open Ds with a pitchbender down an octave

Break for 4 bars during piano solo then:

End Piano part arranged for guitar:

Slightly distorted guitar and Synth guitar both play Fig 1 for 8 bars

After 4 bars of Fig 1, Distorted guitar/synth guitar comes in

That's it, any problems etc. email me at , or visit my band's site (we covered this) at

Acordes

