

Noah Kahan - Forever

tom:

C

Let's drive for no reason, let's see where these wheels land
 Let's grind down the curve of this earth
 You look fine in the evening, honey, it's starting to storm
 When we kissed in the car in the school parking lot
 Where I'd go with my friends to get drunk
 Used to wish I meant anything to anywhere, to anyone

When forever was a sentence, sentence to death
 Oh, when you were a running tear, I was a drop of sweat
 And, the edges of your soul, I haven't seen yet
 Now I'm glad I get forever to see where you end

I won't be alone for the rest of my life
 I'll build a boat for when the river gets high
 And I'll meet a girl in the heat of July
 And I'll tell her so she knows
 That I'm broke, but I'm real rich in my head
 That I broke a bone that never healed in my hand
 So, when I hold her close
 I might loosen my grip, but I won't ever let her go
 I won't ever let her go

Woo

Ooh-ooh, ooh

Remember when we called the cops
 'Cause I got too high, and you got scared
 And the cops just laughed?
 We can't make rent, so we window-shop
 In the Upper West Side, oh, my God
 Could you imagine that?

I won't be alone for the rest of my life
 I'll build a boat for when the river gets high
 And I'll meet a girl in the heat of July
 And I'll tell her so she knows
 That I'm broke, but I'm real rich in my head
 That I broke a bone that never healed in my hand
 So, when I hold her close
 I might loosen my grip, but I won't ever let her go
 I won't ever let her go

When forever was a sentence, sentence to death
 Oh, when you were a running tear, I was a drop of sweat
 And, the edges of your soul, I haven't seen yet
 Now I'm glad I get forever to see where you end
 To see where you end
