

OneRepublic - Nobody

```
You know I ain't tryna lose you, oh, no
               tom:
                                                                                 Am Bb
               .
C
                                                             If you're in h?ll, I'll go there too
       Rh
Nobody, nobody, nobody
                                                            There ain't no, no kinda line
                Am Bb
Nobody, nobody, nobody
                                                                            Am Bb
                                                             That I wouldn't cross if you need me to
                                                                        С
                                                             You're out here searchin' for signs
    C Dm
                                                                             Am Bb
Bb
                                                             So I think it's finally time that you knew
I'd take the fall
                              Am
I got you covered when there's no one at all
                                                            Nobody got you the way I do (ooh)
      Bb C
Oh, yeah, and I see through the night
                                                                         Am Bb
                                                             Whatever demons you're fighting through
When you got demons tryna break through the walls
                                                              Bb C Dm
                                                            When you need somebody to turn to (ooh)
                                                                             Am Bb
There ain't no, no kinda line
                                                            Nobody got you the way I do
That I wouldn't cross if you need me to
                                                            The way I do (the way I do)
You're out here searchin' for signs
                                                             Nobody, nobody, nobody (ayo)
                                                            F
Got you the way I do
                          Am Bb
So I think it's finally time that you knew
                                                             Oh, nobody, nobody (ayo)
Nobody got you the way I do (ooh)
                                                                              Am Bb
                                                            Nobody got you the way I do
                        Am Bb
Whatever demons you're fighting through
                  Dm
                                                            The way I do
When you need somebody to turn to
                                                                    C
Nobody got you the way I do
                                                             The way, the way, the way I do
The way I do
                                                            Nobody got you the way I do (woo)
            C
Nobody, nobody, nobody (ayo)
                                                            Nobody, nobody, nobody (ayo)
        Am Bb
                                                                                 Am Bb
                                                             Got you the way I do (yeah, yeah, yeah)
Got you the way I do
                                                            Bb C Dm
Nobody, nobody, nobody (ayo)
     C
Oh, nobody, nobody, nobody (ayo)
           Am Bb
                                                                             Am Bb
                                                            Nobody got you the way I do
Nobody got you the way I do
The way I do (yeah, yeah)
                                                            The way I do
                                                                        C
When you go dark and the night gets so cold
                                                             Nobody, nobody, nobody (ooh)
                 Am Bb
I'll b? on my way to you (oh, yeah)
                                                            Nobody got you the way I do
Acordes
                                    ukulele-chords.com
                        Jkulele-chords.com
```