

Panic! At The Disco - Hallelujah

```
the bullets from my mouth
Intro: Abm Bbm Dbm Ebm
                                                                  Abm
                                                                                      Dbm
                                                                I love the things you hate about yourself just finished a day
 -Refrão-
                                                               dream who were you trying to be?
                                                                         Abm
                                                                                        Dbm
 All you sinners stand up, sing hallelujah
                                                                Then the time for being sad is over and you miss 'em like you
                                                               miss no other
     Abm
 Show praise with your body, stand up, sing hallelujah
                                                               Ahm
                                                               Fhm
 And if you can't stop shaking, lean back, let move right
                                                                And being blue is better then being over it, over it through ya
         Abm
                                                                                          Dbm
                                                                No one wants you when you have no heart and I'm sitting Say your prayers, say your prayers, say your prayers
hallelujah
                                                               pretty in my brand new scars and
 -Refrão-
                                                                                         Dbm
                                                                You'll never know if you don't ever try again, so let's try, let's try, let's try Ahm
                    Dbm
My life started the day I got caught under the covers with
                                                                -Refrão-
second hand lovers
                                                                All you sinners stand up, sing hallelujah
Abm
Oh tied up in pretty young thing in a state of emergency who Abm
was I trying to be Show praise with your body, stand up, sing hallelujah
         Abm
                         Dbm
 Then the time for being sad is over and you miss 'em like you
                                                               And if you can't stop shaking, lean back, let move right
                                                               through ya
miss no other Abm
Abm
And being blue is better then being over it, over it
                                                                Say your prayers, say your prayers, say your prayers
                                                               hallelujah
                                                                -Refrão-
 Abm
 All you sinners stand up, sing hallelujah
                                                               Breakdown
     Ahm
 Show praise with your body, stand up, sing hallelujah
                                                                -Refrão-
 And if you can't stop shaking, lean back, let move right
                                                                Abm
                                                                All you sinners stand up, sing hallelujah
through ya
                                                                     Ahm
 Say your prayers, say your prayers, say your prayers
                                                                Show praise with your body, stand up, sing hallelujah
hallelujah
 -Refrão-
                                                                And if you can't stop shaking, lean back, let move right
                                                               through ya
                   Dbm
                                                                Say your prayers, say your prayers, say your prayers
 I was drunk and it didn't mean a thing, stop thinking about
```

Acordes

