Intro: Gbm
                                                               [Terceira Parte]
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                  I've got a hole the size of your touch that fits in your arms as much
   Tell me where the wind is blowing 'cause that's where the
                                                                  And when I try to fill it up the hole gets bigger every music's going time
   You are my big dark blue and I wanna swim all around you
                                                                 You are the sweetest melody I never sung
 You are the sweetest melody I never sung
                                                                 You are the sweetest melody I never sung
[Segunda Parte]
                                                               [Refrão]
                                D<sub>b</sub>7
   I feel like I know you but you're just a ghost to me
                                                                You are my island of love my remedy to rescue me
  But when I sit beside your shadow somehow it comforts me
                                                                You are a breeze of a song that carries me
 You are the sweetest melody I never sung
                                                                You are the sweetest melody I never sung
