Hi guys Syl (Frenchydon'thitme!) Voice talking;
What a pleasure it is to be able to play this song on an acoustic guitar
I've waited a few years to adapt it 'cause of course that's an adaptation:

but unless you really start the instrument (& then what are you doin'g here?
Get back to Let it be!) I don't think that it's a good idea to play the tune in exactly the same way My advice: Take a look at verse 1 it's all over the same part except for the 2 last bars So you can only learn verse 1 & links to play the thing like that:

(intro : verse 1 with a bit less notes
(link 1 : E7 with a few Eb7
(Verse 1 : verse 1 (No?! Yes it is Sir!) =)
(link 2 : E7 with a few Eb7 (u see link 1? exactly the same thing) (Verse 2 : Verse 1 (Again? Roger must have wrote it) (link 3 : E7 & B7 (U know the blues ones!)
(Bridge : Verse one but with a bit more notes (link 4 : E7 with a few Eb7 exactly as Link 1 (Verse 3 : Good old verse 1 is striking back but this time with verse 2's lyrics Hi Roger not too busy?
(coda : E7 B7 Eb7 E7 F7 E7 (TaDa!))

something not on the tab: Slide from Eb7 to E7 on links Link 3 bridge & Coda are my own ideas as they replace solo parts being not able to play them alone ('cuz i'm alone how cruel is life!
but she will be mine oh yes she will be mine!) i didn't even tried to catch chords on 'em but it sounds to me as an old 12-bar blues in E

Another good idea: All of the lyrics on just 8 lines:

v1: wasting my time resting my mind the typical Rog line \

for the sad days and the bad days when we was working from 9 to 5
