I was a little girl
 alone in my little world
 who dreamed of a little home for me.
 I played pretend between the trees,
 and fed my houseguests bark and leaves,
 and laughed in my pretty bed of green.
 I had a dream
 That I could fly from the highest swing.
 I had a dream.
 Long walks in the dark
 through woods grown behind the park,
 I asked God who I'm supposed to be.

The stars smiled down on me,
 God answered in silent reverie.
 I said a prayer and fell asleep.
 I had a dream
 That I could fly from the highest tree.
 I had a dream.
 Hooooooooooooooooooooo, Hooooooooooooooooooooo, Hooooooooooooooooooooo?
 (solo gaita)
 Now I'm old and feeling grey.
 I don't know what's left to say about this life I'm willing to leave.
 I lived it full and I lived it well,
 there's many tales I've lived to tell.
 I'm ready now, I'm ready now, I'm ready now to fly from the highest wing.
 I had a dream
