

Queens Of The Stone Age - Un-Reborn Again

```
Intro: Gm Bb
                                                               He said no huggy, no kissy
                                                               Until I get a wedding ring
Skinny nose Jack
                                                               K Dubs cuts quick
Skinny nose Jack
                                                               Bh
                                                               Taking no shit
Knowing nothing about nothing
                                                               Give a metal blowjob
It's a blessing in fact
                                                               Middle finger n' split
Acid faced Jake
Bh
                                                               Fh
Acid faced Jake
                                                               Youth
He like them dancing straight boys
                                                               You could be young again
                                                               Fh
Makes his pupils dilate
                                                               Anew
Juzzy come quick
                                                               Be un-reborn again
                                                               Right where the map ends, is where its hid
Juzzy come quick
Tell the doctor to come over
                                                               Under the X is where it lives
                                                               Gm
                                                               Askew
Bring emergency kit
Evil ol' Scratch
                                                               Frozen in pose locked up in amber eternally
Evil ol' Scratch
                                                               Buried so close to the fountain of youth I can almost reach
He drink the water from the gutter
                                                               Frozen in pose locked up in amber eternally
It's a natural fact
                                                               Buried so close to the fountain of youth I can almost reach
                                                                                          Gm
                                                               I had a vision as clear as day (Frozen in pose locked up in
Youth
                                                               amber eternally)
You could be young again
                                                               Delusions of grandeur in our DNA (Buried so close to the fountain of youth I can almost reach)
Anew
Be un-reborn again
                                                               Every drop like an ocean, a moment of truth (Frozen in pose locked up in amber eternally)
Askew
                                                               Everybody was drowning in the fountain of youth (Buried so close to the fountain of youth I can almost reach)
Frozen in pose locked up in amber eternally
                                                               Screaming, du-du, du-du, du-du la-di-duh
Buried so close to the fountain of youth you can almost reach
                                                               Screaming, du-du, du-du, du-du la-di-duh
                                                               Du-du, du-du, du-du la-di-duh-uhuh-uhai
Frozen in pose locked up in amber eternally
                                                               Du-du, du-du la-di-duh
Buried so close to the fountain of youth you can almost reach
                                                               There's gotta be somewhere to bury the pain
Gm
A fever
                                                               You can drink from the water before it's been drained away
Well, Chi Chi gone shake
                                                               Every drop like an ocean, every moment undone
Chi Chi gone shake
                                                               Implosions of beauty back to where we begun
Ti rompo il culo
                                                               There's gotta be somewhere to bury the pain
Se magnifiqué ode lay
                                                               Everybody was drowning in the fountain of youth
                                                                          Bb
Twizzy gon' twitch
                                                               Screaming, du-du, du-du la-di-duh
                                                                           Bb
                                                               Screaming, mm-hm, mm-hm, hm-hm, hmmm-hmmm
Twizzy gon' twitch
```

Acordes

