

Rachel Zegler - The Old Therebefore / Singing At The Snakes

tom:
 You're headed for heaven
 The sweet old hereafter
 And I've got one foot in the door
 But before I can fly up
 I've loose ends to tie up
 Right here, in the old therebefore
 And I'll be along
 When I've finished my song
 When I've shut down the band
 When I've played out my hand
 When I've paid all my debts
 When I have no regrets
 Right here, in the old therebefore
 And I'll catch you up
 When I've emptied my cup
 When I've worn out my friends

When I've burned out both ends
 When I've cried all my tears
 When I've conquered my fears
 When nothing is left anymore
 And I'll bring the news
 When I've danced off my shoes
 When my body's closed down
 When my boat's run aground
 When I've tallied the score
 And I'm flat on the floor
 When nothing is left anymore (Oooh)
 When I'm pure like a dove
 When I've learned how to love
