                                                             My heart told me to break away now I'm out here far away
                                                                   D7

There were times I left your heart in pain, time again I've Em7
turned and walked away
                                                             Then I'd wake up to a morning that is warm and bright
