                                                                 Ahh ah ah ah ah ah ah
                                                                 ~=Verse 3=~
My rhyme ain't good just yet,
                                                                 Did you know that the gravedigger's still
                                                                 Gettin' stuck in the machine
My brain and tongue just met,
                                                                 Even tough it's a whole other daydream.
                                                                 It's another town it's another world,
And they ain't friends, so far,
                                                                 Where the kids are asleep, where the loans are paid
                                                                 And the lawns are mowed.
My words don't travel far,
                                                                 Whad'ya think?
                                                                 All the gravediggers were gone?
They tangle in my hair,
                                                                 Just cause one song is done
                                                                 There's always another one,
And tend to go nowhere,
                                                                 Waiting right around the bend,
                                                                 Till this one ends,
They grow right back inside,
                                                                 Then it begins
                                                                 Sqeaky clean, then it starts all over again.
Right past my brain and eyes
                                                                 ~=Verse 4=~
Into my stomach juice
                                                                 The weather report keeps on
                                                                 Tossing and turning,
Where they don't serve much use,
                                                                 Predicting and warning,
No healthy calories,
                                                                 And warning and warning of,
                                                                 Possibly it could be news publications and,
                                                                 Possibly it could be news TV stations. That
Nutrition values.
                                                                 Very same morning right next to her coffee
And I absorb back in
                                                                 She noticed some bleeding and heard hollow coughing and National Geographic was being too graphic,
The words right through my skin
                                                                 When all she had wanted to know was the traffic
                                                                 "The worlds got a nosebleed" it said
                                                                 "And we're flooding but we keep on cutting
They sit there festering inside my bowels
                                                                 The trees and the forests!"
~=Chorus=~
                                                                 And we keep on paying those freaks on the TV,
                                                                 Who claim they will save us but want to enslave us.
                                                                 And sweating like demons they scream through our speakers
The consonants and vowels
                                     G
                                                                 But we leave the sound on 'cause silence is harder.
                                                                 And no one's the killer and no one's the martyr
The consequence of sounds
                                     G
                                                                 The world that has made us can no longer contain us
                                                                 And profits are silent then rotting away 'cause
The consonants and vowels
The consequence of sounds
                                                                 ~=Chorus=~
                                                                 The consonants and vowels
~=Verse 2=~
                                                                 The consequence of sounds.
                                                                 The consonants and vowels
Got a soundtrack in my mind,
                                                                 The consequence of sounds.
All the time. Kids-
Screamin' from too much beat up
                                                                 ~=Bridge=~
And they don't even rhyme,
                                                                 Ah ah ah...
They just stand there, on a street corner, Skin tucked in ~=Verse 1 again=~
And meat side out and shot,
                                                                 My rhyme ain't good just yet,
And I'd like to turn them down
                                                                 My brain and tongue just met,
But there ain't no knob.
                                                                 And they aint friends, so far,
                                                                 My words don't travel far,
Run into picket fences
Not into picket lines.
                                                                 They tangle in my hair,
All this hippie-shit for the 60's
                                                                 And tend to go nowhere,
And another clich© for our time. But,
                                                                 They grow right back inside,
But a one of these days your heart
                                                                 Right past my brain and eyes
                                                                 Into my stomach juice
Where they don't serve much use,
Will just stop ticking,
And they sorta just don't find you till your cubicle is
                                                                 No healthy calories,
reeking.
                                                                 Nutrition values.
~=Chorus=~
                                                                 And I absorb back in
                                                                 The words right through my skin
The consonants and vowels
                                                                 They sit there festering inside my bowels
The consequence of sounds
The consonants and vowels
The consequence of sounds
                                                                 ~=Chorus=~
                                                                 The consonants and vowels
~=Bridge=~
                                                                 The consequence of sounds
                                                                 The consonants and vowels
                                                                 The consequence of sounds
