

Resident Evil - At The End Of a Long Escape

'Til you opened the door
Intro: E Abm
                                                                               Gb
                                                                     Е
                                                              And you showed me that I'm not alone
Don't seem to remember
                                                              I believe in my heart's desire
When I left the cold behind me
                                                              I believe I can walk through fire
The snow reminds me
                                                              I know how very strong I am
Of the world I've left outside
                                                              When I'm at my weakest
So when you found me
                                                              I believe I can overcome all
I glimpsed some hope through the fear
                                                              I believe I can save the world

And is this what I've missed?
                                                              You saved me oh so

And is this how it feels to believe?
                                                              Won't you let me save you
                                                               (GAGbEGbGA)
You believed in my heart's desire
                                                                        G
You believed I could walk through fire
                                                              When it seems like hope is gone
You showed me just how strong I was
                                                              No way to tell if I am dreaming

                                                              But I can tell that we'll make it through this
At my very weakest
You believed I could overcome all
                                                              I believe flames can't burn us
You believed I could save the world
                                                              I believe ice can't break us
You saved me oh so
                                                              I believe we can be so much more
                                                                      F
                                                                            Α
Won't you let me save you
                                                              Now that we're together
                                                              I believe we can overcome all
Heart cold as winter
                                                               I believe we can save the world
Ahm
I walked a path all alone
                                                              You saved me oh so
Just another stranger
                                                              Won't you let me save you
In a world that passed me by
Each day each night, I'd fight
                                                              You saved me oh so
Fight to keep my feelings locked tight
                                                              Won't you let me save you
