Intro: C F7 Am G F7

Sweat, and blood, and ink I've spent

But I saved my tears

I won't spring a leak for them

Sharply dressed and ill at ease

Like a sucker keen to please

The man, the boss, the teacher

I have tried to fall in love

It did nothing more than leave me messed up

Some wild, bitter baby

Now I'm crying for whoever

Contentment would have made

All things pass and change

I wish you could

Have lived your life

All the things you would have seen

Or the man you could have been

I would stand beside you

Now the hours and seconds crawl

Make me question it all again

Why my son, my boy, my light?

You'd have found someone to love

Someone sweet and kind, a lot like you

She'd be your everything

And it could have saved you

Contentment would have made

All things pass and change

I wish you could

Have lived your life

Contentment would have made

All things pass and change

I wish you could

Have lived your life like this
