

Rô - All Yours

I may need a little help to carry this around tom:
               Dbm (forma dos acordes no tom de Am )
Capostraste na 4º casa
                                                                 Just don't stop the music or you're out
Intro: F E7 Am C7
                                                                  I'm serious, dont fuck it up again
F E7 Am C
                                                                 I'm just kidding you're the boss
Uh, ay, uh
F E7 Am C7
(Ay uh, ay)
                                                                 Keep on drinking night is ours
F E7 Am C
                                                                 And if you-
                            F7
I know, today is gonna be a good day, a great day
                                                                 Who's turning the lights on and off again?
Don't matter what they say
                                                                 If you ever wake up feeling blue
Where fine we just gotta
                                                                 I know there's one escape
        E7
Feel these beats on our bones
                                                                 Will leave to far, far roads
We're gonna fill up
                                                                 Where we can dance until we're grey
               E7
This house with people
                                                                 There's no place on earth
                                                                   E7
We haven't met yet
                                                                 I'd feel sad
           C7
                                                                 If this song is on I've said not once but two times
Oh, nice to meet ya, you're home
Don't be afraid to take your shoes off
                                                                 I guess that beat's the reason why
                                                                 F E7 Am C7
Keep on dancing until your feet fall off
                                                                     The reason why
If you ever wake up feeling blue
                                                                 I guess that beat's the reason why
                                                                 F E7 Am C7
I know there's one escape
                                                                       The reason why
Will leave to far, far roads
Where we can dance until we're grey
                                                                 Let's pop it one last time
                                                                 Cause the Sun is shy
There's no place on earth
I'd feel sad
                                                                 We've got it all
                                 F
If this song is on I've said not once but two times
                                                                 To the floor it's all yours
                      C7
I guess that beat's the reason why
                                                                 It's all yours

                   F E7 A
     The reason why
                                                                 To the floor it's all yours
Hold my glass
                                                                 It's all yours
