Rockeer - How Could You?

```
Now everything I've built here inside is about to collapse
          [Primeira Parte]
                C Em
                            G
If you want me to leave, lower your head, and I will
                                                           How could you give up our life together?
Em G A C Em
But if I walk away, know that it will be the end
                                                           We promised each other that we?d do our best
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                              Em G
                                                           And now you?re running away from me
Cause everything I've built here inside is about to collapse
                                                           So that's why I'm asking again: ?how could you??
                                                           Oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh... how could you?
           G
How could you give up our life together?
                                                           Oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh... yeah how could you?
          G
We promised each other that we?d do our best
                                                           ( A C A C )
 Em G
And now you?re running away from me
                                                           You're running away
So that's why I'm asking again: ?how could you??
                                                           You're running away
                                                           [Solo] Em G A C
Oh, oh, oh, oh... oh, oh, oh, oh... how could you?
                                                            Em G A C
Oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh... yeah how could you?
                                                           Oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh... how could you?
[Segunda Parte]
                                                           Oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh... yeah how could you?
                                                           Em G A C Oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh... how could you?
               C Em
Holding my hand, you looked inside me that day Em G A C Em G A C
And told me that nothing was stronger than us?
                                                           Oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh, oh... yeah how could you?
