

Royal & the Serpent - Happier In Hell

```
Hard stuff like six years ago
                            tom:
                                                               And I'm starting to think that getting
                Ab (forma dos acordes no tom de G )
Capostraste na 1ª casa
                                                               Sober hasn't helped at all
            [Primeira Parte]
                                                               Th?y say the grass is greener, but I
       D
                                                               Kind of miss the chemicals
Maybe you're not sad enough
                                                               Sorry, I'm not perfect yet, I swear
                                                               It's nothing personal
I'm afraid of medication, but I think I
                                                               [Pré-Refrão]
Should be on it
I keep trying meditation, but if I'm
                                                               I don't need your help
                                                               You can keep the Pelotons and cleanses
Being honest
Doing anything that's good for me makes
                                                               To yourself
                                                               I'm glad it's going well
Me wanna vomit
    G
I'm sorry for the mess I made, I'll
                                                               But I've been to Heaven, it's happier
                                                               In Hell
Clean it in the morning
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                               [Refrão]
I don't need your help
                                                               Maybe you're not sad enough
You can keep the Gary Vees and TED
                                                               Maybe I should suck it up
           D
Talks to yourself
                                                               I'm an imposter, I am a fraud
I'm glad it's going well
                                                               Most days, I'm a devil, today, I'm a
But I've been to Heaven, it's happier
                                                               Maybe you're not sad enough
In Hell
                                                               Or maybe I should give it up
[Refrão]
                                                               ( G Bm D G Bm D )
                                                               (GBm DGBm
                                                               (G Gbm Bm D)
Maybe you're not sad enough
Maybe I should suck it up
                                                               [Refrão]
I'm an imposter, I am a fraud
                                                               Maybe you're not sad enough
Most days, I'm a devil, today, I'm a
                                                               Maybe I should suck it up
Maybe you're not sad enough
                                                               I'm an imposter, I am a fraud
Or maybe I should give it up
                                                               Most days, I'm a devil, today, I'm a
[Segunda Parte]
                                                               Maybe you're not sad enough
I-i-i barely even drink, I quit the
                                                               Or maybe I should give it up
Acordes
```

