                                                                We rock this joint and fade away
(Hard) rock this joint!
(Hard) rock this joint!
                                                                (Hard) rock this joint!
(Hard) rock this joint!
                                                                (Hard) rock this joint!
                                                                (Hard) rock this joint!
Ahhhhhhh
Solo: Am C Am
                  Dm
                        (2x)
                                                                Ahhhhhhh
                                                               Solo: Am C Am Dm
                                                                                         (2x)
I put the world on my shoulder
Don't worry, I feel no pain
                                                               I put the world on my shoulder
                                                                And carry on all the way
                                                                I have a laugh, just can't get enough
I'm down on the floor, but you can be sure
                                                                There's always sun after rain
I'm standing up once again
                                                               I keep filling up this bottle
Don't bother you with my troubles
                                                                'Cause I'm running empty soon
Just try to walk in my shoes
                                                               Oh yeah, here comes double trouble
I'll keep filling up this bottle
                                                                                                                    C (2x)
                                                                              Dm
                                                                Your energy is pouring just all over me
                                              C
                                                   Am
With energy that's pouring just all over me
                                                                (Hard) hard rockin' the place
                                                                                 Dm
                                                                Wherever we go, whatever it takes
Sometimes I feel like a boxer
Well, I can take all the heat
                                                                (Hard) hard rockin' the place
                                                                                 Dm
                                                                            G
You knock me down, but next time around
                                                                We rock this joint and fade away
I'll be back on my feet
                                                                (Hard) hard rockin' the place
                                                                                 Dm
You're killing me with your troubles
                                                                Wherever we go, whatever it takes
It's always just the same old blues
                                                                (Hard) hard rockin' the place
I'll keep filling up this bottle
                                                                We rock this joint and fade away
                                                   Am
With energy that's pouring over you and me
                                                                (Hard) rock this joint!
                                                                (Hard) rock this joint!
(Hard) hard rockin' the place
                  Dm
                                                                (Hard) rock this joint!
Wherever we go, whatever it takes
                                                                Ahhhhhhh
