

Sean Rowe - I'll Follow Your Trail

Tom: D

I didn't know I was lookin' for you
 I didn't know there was something to find
 Tomorrow you won't fit in yesterday's shoes
 And I'm tryin' so hard to rewind

You came to me as an empty cup
 I didn't know love could ever be real
 And every day I tried to fill you up
 With everything that I thought you would feel

Through the years, the sorrow
 The joy that we borrow
 The tears that we share with the rain
 Oh today, tomorrow
 Forever I'll follow your trail
 Just call my name

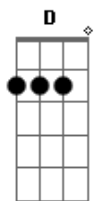

And I was there when you took your first step
 Into a world that was wide as the sky
 I held your belly there against my chest
 I was there when you needed to cry

I never knew a friend could be so small
 And have a heart just as big as the moon
 You know I can't stop you from growin' up
 I just wish that it wasn't so soon

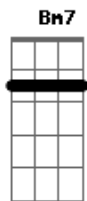

Through the years, the sorrow
 The joy that we borrow
 The tears that we share with the rain
 Oh today, tomorrow
 Forever I'll follow your trail
 Just call my name
