

Seether - Fur Cue

```
And nothing's going to change
Intro: D
                                                                                                                                                 Get out of my head
           D Bb C D Bb E
It's all too revealing
                                                                                                                                                  You make me realize that's it's all a lie
                                                                                                                                                          Bb C
      Bb C
Your words are deceiving D
                                                                                                                                                 And it comes as no surprise
I can't let you get in my way
                                                                                                                                                 Stay for a while
                                                                                                                                                 Stay 'cause you make me smile

Bb C D
I sense all your actions
    Bb
                                                                                                                                                 There's no compromise
Are meant as distractions
You must know I won't play your game D Bb
                                                                                                                                                  ( D Bb C ) (4x)
                                                                                                                                                 ( Ab \ G \ F \ D \ D \ Ab \ G \ F \ D \ D \ D )
Fake your more than I can take \begin{tabular}{c} \begin{tabular}{c}
                                                                                                                                                 Fake your more than I can take
And something's going to break $\operatorname{Bb}\nolimits C
                                                                                                                                                 And something's going to break $\operatorname{Bb}\nolimits C
Get out of my head
No shame your passing all the blame {\color{red}C}
                                                                                                                                                  Get out of my head
And nothing's going to change
Bb C
Get out of my head
                                                                                                                                                 No shame your passing all the blame
                                                                                                                                                  And nothing's going to change
                                                                                                                                                  Get out of my head
You make me realize that's it's all a lie ${\rm Bb}$
And it comes as no surprise Bb F
                                                                                                                                                  You make me realize that's it's all a lie
                                                                                                                                                    Bb C
Stay for a while
                                                                                                                                                 Stay for a while
There's no compromise
                                                                                                                                                 Stay 'cause you make me smile Bb C D
                                                                                                                                                  There's no compromise
I'm sick of pretending
                                                                                                                                                 Stay for a while
The thoughts are unending
                                                                                                                                                 Stay 'cause you make me smile
Bb C D
I can't let you get in my way (There's no way, no)
                                                                                                                                                 There's no compromise
I'm no longer pending
                                                                                                                                                  Stay for a while
My mind set is mending D
                                                                                                                                                 Stay 'cause you make me smile
Bb C D
                                                            Bb C
And now I have something to say (Deny me)
                                                                                                                                                 There's no compromise
Fake your more than I can take {\color{red}C}
                                                                                                                                                  ( D Bb C ) (2x)
And something's going to break
    Bb C
                                                                                                                                                 Shame you're passing all the blame C D
Get out of my head
                                                                                                                                                 And nothing's going to change $\operatorname{\textsc{Bb}}\xspace C D
No shame your passing all the blame
                                                                                                                                                 Get out of my head
```

Acordes

