Tardy afternoons in utopia Kiss an ugly turtle to make it cry Sever the head of cornucopia Gb

We rape the Earth and don't know why it strikes

Do you believe in stormy weather, stormy weather? Hurricanes play musical chairs with homes and chattel The whirling dervish tornadoes reek all disaster See-saw tsunamis give and take What's the matter?

I loved you in the sunshine You chase the moon with a spear I pray that you will be all mine You foam at the mouth and disappear

Sever the head of cornucopia We fuck the earth and don't know why it cries

Do you believe in stormy weather, stormy weather? Hurricanes play musical chairs with homes and chattel The whirling dervish tornadoes reek all disaster See-saw tsunamis give and take

Acordes

What's the matter?

I loved you in the sunshine You chase the moon with a spear I pray that you will be all mine You foam at the mouth and disappear

We broke our pact And away we go To another place

Home, where we call home Why do we disfigure all the things That are so beautiful inside? Where we compose the calamities For all to abide Microcosm, macrocosm are the same What a lame game

Don't you think we're extraordinary? Believing, and seeing Realizing the imaginary Don't you, don't you? Yes, I think we're extraordinary Being, and living Yes, I think we ought to marry

We broke our pact And away we go To another place

I loved you in the sunshine You chase the moon with a spear I pray that you will be all mine You foam at the mouth and disappear
