

Silversun Pickups - Dots And Dashes (Enough Already)

Tom: G

So you want to mess with me? Caught me in a silent scream
 Heat filling up my cheeks, not exactly what you think
 See you in the room next door, your feet float above the floor
 Dress torn above your knees like you've owned it for centuries
 Dots and dashes on the wall, you tell me about the falls
 Of kingdoms and champions you've seen a thousand times before
 I show you my private things like my scrapbook of fantasies
 You say I look a little too green for saving

I'm already bored, I'm already wise, I'm already worn
 I'm already wondering "what am I?"
 I'm already rough, I'm already lean
 I'm already wanting to be obscene
 I'm already cursed, I'm already dry
 I'm already wondering "what am I?"
 I've already learned a bit of sin
 Enough already let me in

C Bm D C

We signal in a moon beam, I beg you to follow me
 You say that I'll be surprised at the codes in the sunrise
 But if I don't like what I see and my grip starts loosening
 The edge of the big reveal could be the end of the story
 I just found innocence spinning around, spinning around
 Should I stand back and blow it all down, blow it all away?

I'm already bored, I'm already wise, I'm already worn
 I'm already wondering "what am I?"
 I'm already rough, I'm already lean
 I'm already wanting to be obscene
 I'm already cursed, I'm already dry
 I'm already wondering "what am I?"
 I've already learned a bit of sin
 Enough already let me in

We signal in a moon beam, I beg you to follow me
 You say that I'll be surprised at the codes in the sunrise
 But if I don't like what I see and my grip starts loosening
 The edge of the big reveal could be the end of the story
