

Soccer Mommy - Circle The Drain

tom:

I wanna be calm like the soft
 Summer rain on your back
 Like the fall of your shoulders
 But everything just brings me back down
 To the cold hard ground
 And it keeps getting colder
 It's a feeling that boils in my brain
 I would dial back the flame
 But I'm not sure I'm able
 I'm wobbling out on the wire
 And the lights could go out
 With the break of a cable
 Things feel that low sometimes
 Even when everything is fine
 Hey I've been falling apart these days
 Split open watching my heart go
 Round and around
 Round and around
 Circle the drain
 I'm going down
 (Round and around)
 (Round and around)
 (Round and around)
 (Round and around)
 (Round and around)
 I'm trying to seem strong for my love
 For my family and friends
 But I'm so tired of faking
 'Cause I'm chained to my bed when they're gone
 Watching tv alone
 Until my body starts aching
 And I think there's mold in my brain

Spreading down all the way
 Through my heart and my body
 'Cause I cling to the dark of my room
 And the days thin me out
 Or just burn me straight through
 Things feel that low sometimes
 Even when everything is fine
 Hey I've been falling apart these days
 Split open watching my heart go
 Round and around
 Round and around
 Circle the drain
 I'm going down
 (Round and around)
 (Round and around)
 (Round and around)
 (Round and around)
 Things feel that low sometimes
 Even when everything is fine
 Hey I've been falling apart these days
 Round and around
 Round and around
 Circle the drain
 I'm going down
 Round and around
 Round and around
 Round and around
 Round and around
 Round and around
 Round and around
 Circle the drain
 I'm going down
