

Sonic Youth - Screaming Skull

```
Tom: Db
                                                          once)
                                                          > >
                                                                    pat smear
SCREAMING SKULL
> >VERSE: theres just that one chord, C, then rake in rhythm > >SOLO: im so off on this. it really may be two guitars playing off each
as kim says
> >the werds. by C i mean the root note on the E string (8th > >other by a fifth. dunno. the bass plays the verse/chorus fret) plus
                                                          structure through.
> >the fifth on the A string (10th fret) and possibly the octave on the D
> >string (10th fret) if yr not too lazy. by rake i mean release the action
> >a little so that the strings are muted, then strum up and down. with the > >right distortion this will sound like the album.
> >
           rake rake rake
> >
                                                          > >thats all. anyone who can come up with a tuning that would society
                                                          facilitate this
           rake rake rake
                                                          > >fifthed part of the solo, eg. by putting the fifth in the screaming skull
                                     etc.
                                                          same fret rather > >than in the second or third (yeah, those high strings are a pain in the > >CHORUS: same idea, but with Bb and G#, alternately.
                                                          > >ass), please post.
          rake rake rake
                                                          > >have phun
               i'll go there
> >
>
> >
       Ab
           rake rake rake
               but i don't care
                                                          > >:: WITH AN OUNCE OF PAIN :: Scott T. Brown
       Bb
> >
          rake rake rake
                                                          ::
                                                          > >:: I WIELD A TON OF RAGE :: Columbia University, NYC
> >
               i'll go there
>
> >
       Ab
           rake rake rake
> >
               it's just to stare
                                     etc.
                                                          rake rake rake Bb Bb Bb (do that >
```

Acordes

