You caught me in the right place at the right time

So I'll just dive right in

Say you've got a blank space in your right mind

Well here's my second wind

Oh, your idea of me blown away, away

Something in the past tense didn't make sense for this to follow through

What did you expect to happen? Were you mad then

With nothing left to do?

Oh, you're making me sick. What is this?

Had we been drawn to close before?

Because I dropped my forgiveness, it's lying face down (on the floor)

I've got more secrets than you'll ever know

Another year and you won't let it go

Too many times I told myself to hold on

But it's too late for me, now I'm as good as gone

Funny how we go way back and we said that

We wouldn't let this come between

Everything and is it true that I could look past

Memories and stay obscene?

Oh, your idea of me blown away, away

Something's telling me I never could have ruined everything you want in life

Because you never put in effort, and the truth is you were never doing it right

Oh, you're making me sick. What is this?

I the one you can't ignore?

It turns out I don't go down that easily

You'll never really know what this means to me

And no, it wasn't ever too much to hold

But you stole your own self control

It turns out I don't go down that easily

You'll never really know what this means to me

And no, it wasn't ever too much to hold so just know

Refrão:

I've got more secrets than you'll ever know

Another year and you won't let it go

Too many times I told myself to hold on

But it's too late for me, now I'm as good as gone

Not everybody wants an enemy

Call me the culprit and that's all you'll see

You were responsible for finding a way to catch on

But it's too late for me, now I'm as good as gone
