Intro: A  G  D
        A  A2

A          G       D
I'm edging closer, shivers all over
A                  A2
It's way too real, I'm way too sober
A        G             D
Usually they've got you covered all over
A                  Dbm
Lack of composure, I'm walking over
D
What will I do?
              A7M      A
I never had a chance to

                    A      G         D
There's no one else around you
              A                    A2
Not that I was waiting, vision ever fading
               A    G      D
Heading for the deep end
            A                Dbm
Soon as I remember, baby, I surrender
              G       D
I just need to breathe out
                A                      A2
Decision's are approaching, reality in motion

( A  G  D )

A                       A2
Trying to be patient but I'm feeling ancient
A         G               D
Trying to control the way that I'm facing
Dbm           Abm             Dbm
Suppose that I didn't care anymore
          Abm            Gbm
Fate can decide, I can ignore
         Abm             G      D
I'll just pretend that I always knew
              A7M    A
That I had the chance to

                       A    G        D
There's no one else around you
              A                    A2
Not that i was waiting, vision ever fading
            A   G     D
Making such a promise
            A                        Db
Only leads to heartache, closer to an earthquake
                    G
Talked about in Hollywood
                  A         A2
Trying to stay in motion

            G                                  A
It made my heart run in circles and overflow
            G                                A
And I was closer than ever to letting go
             Gbm  G                              Gbm G
It made my heart run in circles and overdrive
            Gbm  G                             Gbm G
And I was closer than ever to feeling alive

          Gbm G                                 Gbm G
It made my heart run in circles and overflow
            Gbm G                            Gbm G
And I was closer than ever to letting go
             Gbm  G                              Gbm G
It made my heart run in circles and overdrive
            Gbm  G                             Gbm G
And I was closer than ever to feeling alive

                      A     G      D
There's no one else around you
               A                    A2
Not that I was waiting, vision ever fading
                A    G      D
Heading for the deep end
             A                  Dbm
Soon as I remember, baby, I surrender
                  G      D
I just need to breathe out
                 A                     A2
Decision's are approaching, reality in motion

               A     G      D
Let's not think about it
               A                       A2
Put your arms around me, I can sense you doubt me
                 A   G  D
You don't need to promise
                  A                        Dbm
That only leads to heartache, closer to an earthquake
                   G      D
Talked about in Hollywood
                  D                          D
All there's left to do, all there's left to do
All there's left to do, all
