

Tanita Tikaram - I Might Be Crying

tom:

Intro: A D E A
A D E A

What didn't know back then
Was that I might be crying
Such a simple sentiment
To steal the show

And what I didn't know back then
Is that I might be losing you
Yeah I might be losing you
And still I wouldn't know

And now I suck up to the pale moonlight
Like it's gonna lead me home
And I shiver in my tired clothes
As if that could keep me warm

And now I stare across the dirty river
And I breathe this dirty air
And I'm sure upon the bridge I'll see you
'Cos I dreamt I'd kiss you there

(A D E A)

What I didn't know back then
Is how great the sin
How time goes so slowly
When you're chiseling on a friend

And what I didn't know back then
Is that I might be needing you
Yeah I might be needing you
The need it doesn't end

And now I stare across the dirty river
And I breathe this dirty air
And I'm sure upon the bridge I'll see you
'Cos I dreamt I'd kiss you there

(A D E A)
(A D E A)

What I didn't know back then
Was that I might be crying
It's such a simple sentiment
To steal the show

Acordes

