Every inch of space in your head
                                       С
Is filled up with the things that you read
                                                                'Til every room in my house is filled

I guess you've got everything now
                                                                With shit I couldn't live without
And every film that you've ever seen
                                                                (Everything now!) I need it

                       G
I pledge allegiance to everything now
                                                                       G
                                                                La la la la la la
Every song that I've ever heard
                 С
                                                                La la la la la la la la
Is playing at the same time, it's absurd
                           G
                                                                                    С
And it reminds me, we've got everything now
                                                                La la la la la la la

                                                                With shit I couldn't live without
                                                                (Everything now!) I need it
                                                                (Everything now!) I can't live without
Every ancient road's got a town
                      ſ
Daddy, how come you're never around?
                                                                (Everything now!) I can't live
                 G
I miss you, like everything now
                                                                (Everything now!)
                F
Mama, leave the food on the stove
                                            С
                                                                Every inch of space in my heart is filled
Leave your car in the middle of the road
                                                                With something I'll never start
                      G
This happy family with everything now
                                                                           G
                                                                The ashes of everything now
We turn the speakers up till they break
                                          С
                                                                And then you're black again
'Cause every time you smile it's a fake!
                                                                                        С
                                                                Can't make it back again
