You'll be forever an angel in a sun dress blowing in the sweet September wind At least that's how I choose to remember and in my heart you'll never love again maybe it's too late to regain sight of all that we have lost

Refrão 1:
got to hold on to this moment don't let go maybe it's too late for redemption now

Verso 2:
I see a blanket of pale white snow on the street side from this doll house full of open words and the stained glass of the church next door casts it's vile upon this empty room

Pré-Refrão 1:
your eyes that used to shine as bright as open lights without

Refrão 2:
but we're meant to be loved it's the greatest heritage I can never make you love me again

Ponte:
but when all else fails it fails did I fail you? will you fail me too? because there's nothing that I wouldn't do to hold on to you but you give me nothing to hold on to maybe it's too late to keep the one out from giving up tonight

Refrão 3:
I guess it's too late for forgiveness God forgive me!
I guess it's too late for a family now everything reminds me of you everything reminds me of you you're an angel in a sun dress and my heart will never love again...
