

The Cardigans - And Then You Kissed Me

```
Tom: G
 Em
     D
                                                        Man, you hit me!
Man, I've had a few
                                                            G
But they wouldn't quite blow me like you

Em D G
You gave me your name and signed
With a halo around my eye
                                                        Em D G
         G
                                                            G Am
And it hit me like never before
That love is a powerful force
Em D G
Yes, it struck me that love is a sport
                                                            G Am
So I pushed you a little bit more
                                                        Em D G
   D
                                                            G Am
Love, you're news to me
                                                              C
You're a little bit more than I thought you'd be
Em D G
A mole in my well-fed lawn
C G
          Am
You're a nightmare beating the dawn
                                                                  C
Oh, it hit me like never before
                                                                  C
    G
         Am
That love is a powerful force
                                                             C
Em D G
                                                        My heart overfloods
Yes, it struck me that love is sport
                                                            D
    G Am
So I pushed you a little bit more
                                                        Man, you hit me!
Blue, blue, black and blue
                                                        Em D G
                                                        Baby, you hit me!
           С
Red blood sticks like glue
True love is cruel love
                                                             D G
         С
Red blood's a power-fuel
                                                        C G Am
Sweet love, tasty blood
   С
My heart overfloods
   D
Oh you hit me!
C G
                                                        You hold me with your violent heartbeat
```

Yeah, you hit me really hard Yeah you hit me right in the heart Lord, I've had my deal But I never quite knew how it feels When love makes you wake up sore With fists that are ready for more And it hit me that love is a game Like in war no one can be blamed Yes, it struck me that love is a sport So I pushed you a little bit more Oh, blue, blue, black and blue Red blood sticks like glue True love is cruel love Red blood's a power fuel Sweet love tasted blood Yeah you hit me really hard Yeah you punched me right in the heart And then you kissed me... And then you hit me... Oh, you haunt me with your violent heartbeat at night Em D G Am Oh, you strike me with your silence baby, tonight Em D G Why you haunt me with your violence baby, come hit me!
