Whisper your name in an empty room
 You brush past my skin, as soft as fur
 Taking hold I taste your scent
 Distant noises, other voices
 Pounding in my broken head
 Commit the sin
 Commit yourself

And all the other voices said
 Change your mind
 You're always wrong

Come around at Christmas
 I really have to see you
 Smile at me slyly
 Another festive compromise
 But I live with desertion
 And eight million people
 Distant noises
 Other voices
 Pulsing in my swinging arms
 Caress the sound
 So many dead
 And all the voices said
 Change your mind
 You're always wrong
