

The Doors - Break On Through

```
Arms that chain, eyes that lie.
Intro: /Verse:
                                                               Revised Chorus:
                                                               _____
Emajor
                                            sl
                                                             . Emajor
                                           night divides the
You know the day destroys the night,
                                                               Break on through to the other side, break on through to the other side,
{ The two ghost notes above are played at different parts of Break on through, oh...oh yeah...
the song. }
{ By listening to the album, you can tell when to play them.
                                                               Second Bridge:
                                                               E7#9
Bridge:
======
Dmajor
                                                               { Continue, using Second bridge as pattern }
                                                               Made the scene, week to week, day to day, hour to hour
     Tried to run,
                            tried to hide
                                                               { Repeat First Bridge }
Chorus:
                                                               Gate is straight, deep and wide
======
                                                               Outro: Emajor
                                                               =====
                                                               Emajor
Break on through to the other side, break on through to the other side,
Break on through to the other side, yeah.
                                                               Break on through to the other side, break on through to the other side,
{ Repeat Intro/Verse and Bridge }
                                                               Emajor
We chased our pleasures here, dug our treasures there
But can ya still recall the time we cried?
{ Repeat Chorus }
                                                                     Break on through, break on through, break on through Break on through to the other side, break on through to the other side.
                                                                     Break on through, yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah,
{ Repeat Intro/Verse during keyboard solo }
                                                               yeah, yeah, yeah!
Everybody loves my baby, everybody loves my baby,
                                                               Legend:
She get...She get...She get...high.....
                                                                                  \ = Slide down
{ Repeat Intro/Verse and Bridge }
                                                                                                       . = Staccato note
                                                               h = hammer-on p = pull-off
                                                                                  / = Slide up
                                                                                                      = Ghost note
```

b = bend up note one whole step

Acordes

I found an island in your arms, country in your eyes,