G                      D
You'll wear your mask, I'll wear mine
    Em
The don't come cheap but they fit just fine
G                 D
You can be her and I'll be him
      Em
We'll go sink while the rest starts to swim
C                  G                   D                   Em
Little by little by little by little by little by little by little
C                  G                   D                 Em
Little by little by little by little by little by all day long

( C  G  C  G )
( C  G  C  G )

G                       D
We can pretend that our faiths are entwined
    Em
The beautiful lies, the beautiful kind
G                       D
Everybody know that the sun still sets
    Em
And everybody gives and everybody gets
C                  G                   D                   Em
Little by little by little by little by little by little by
little
C                  G                   D                 Em
Little by little by little by little by little by all day long
C                  G                   D                   Em
Little by little by little by little by little by little by
little
C                  G                   D                 Em
Little by little by little by little by little by all day long

G                          D
I can be the one that you just can't shake
          Em
'Til you swear that your eyes go blind
G                          D
We can disappear 'til the sun burns a hole
          Em
In the life that we left behind
      C                    G
And I just won't stop 'til my heart gives way
          D                Em
And you and I are a long lost myth
     C                          G
There's not very much I wouldn't do
                    D                  Em
To be the last of the men that you romance with
               D                  Em
The last of the men that you romance with
C                  G                   D                   Em
Little by little by little by little by little by little by
little
C                  G                   D                 Em
Little by little by little by little by little by all day long
C                  G                   D                   Em
Little by little by little by little by little by little by
little
C                  G                   D                 Em
Little by little by little by little by little by all day long

( C  G  D  Em )
( C  G  D  Em )

C                      G            D  Em
You wear your mask and I wear mine
C                      G              D  Em
They don't come cheap but the fit just fine
C                       G                  D  Em
We can pretend that our faiths are entwined
C                      G               D  Em
