

The Strokes - 12 51 0

Tom: E

Hey guys this is one of my fav songs ever and its 100% accurate guaranteed. There is no Palm mute most of the song except on the Chorus Guitar 1 and a few other exception which I'll point out
Intro: Guitar 1 (Albert) Guitar 2 does nothing

Verse Guitar 1

(Be sure not to add the third string of the power chord(X) in every power chord in the song Only hit the two strings as shown)
Chorus Guitar 1

(Try to slide (s) between these power chords. It takes some time to get every stroke(no pun intended) plus the slide, so try substituting the last down stroke of each power
Bridge Guitar 1

For the last verse, play the verse palm muted like usual, but do not play the chorus, just repeat the verse again, but this time, let it ring and not palm mute it.
Ending Guitar 1 Guitar 2 does nothing

Guitar 2 (Nick)
Nick plays through a synthesizer pedal in this song. If you don't have one than u can just turn your tone knob all the way down. It should be muffled.

Verse Guitar 2

This phrase is all on the same string. It seems babyish but Nick wants that consistent tone that he wouldnt get if he were to change to different strings.
Chorus Guitar 2

it changes to this:

Bridge Guitar 2

(Make sure you hold out and smoothly connect(h) the last part of the phrase)

For the last verse, play the verse phrase exactly the same, but dont play thew chorus.
Then When you play the verse for the second time, it changes like this:

Here is the song order so you can put the parts together:

Guitar 1 (Albert):
Intro: Verse
Chorus
Verse
Chorus
Bridge
Verse(1st time palmed, 2nd time open)
Ending

Guitar 2 (Nick):
Intro: (dont play)
Verse
Chorus
Verse
Chorus
Bridge
Verse(skip chorus)
Ending(dont play)
