

Tori Kelly - First Heartbreak

```
So I guess that it's a good thing
                        tom:
                                                            Abm7
Intro: B Db Ebm7
                                                      When you want something so bad
 B Db Ebm7
                                                      [Refrão]
[Primeira Parte]
                                                                           Db Ebm7
                                                                   В
        B Db
                                                      'Cause for the first time I get worried $B$ $Db$ $Ebm7
                      Fbm7
You never hear me singing love songs
                                                      When I'm looking in your eyes
    B Db Ebm7
Wasn't big on poetry
                                                             B Db Ebm7
                                                      That one day you might leave me
     B Db Ebm7
Never cried in the movies
                                                           Abm7 Gb
      Abm7 Gb
                                                      And it keeps me up at night
Didn't want to feel so weak
                                                       B Db Ebm7
                                                      I guess that means I really love you
           Db Ebm7
                                                             B Db Ebm7
I would never talk about it
                                                      'Cause I'm afraid to make mistakes
      B Db Ebm7
                                                      B Db Ebm7
                                                      If you ever left me
Never let it get too deep
       B Db Ebm7
                                                               Abm7
                                                      That would be my first heartbreak
But something in me is changing
     Abm7 Gb
Guess you did something to me
                                                      [Ponte]
[Refrão]
                                                          Abm7
                                                       I wanna run, I wanna stay
                  Db Ebm7
            В
                                                               В
'Cause for the first time I get worried
                                                      Hold every piece so it won't break
     B Db Ebm7
                                                      Gb Abm7 Ebm
                                                       Wanna let go, wanna hold tight
When I'm looking in your eyes
      B Db Ebm7
                                                         В
That one day you might leave me
                                                      Afraid that I might suffocate
     Abm7 Gb
                                                                Abm7
                                                        You with my love
And it keeps me up at night {\sf B} {\sf Db} {\sf Ebm7}
                                                                 Fbm7
I guess that means I really love you
                                                      How much is enough?
    B Db
'Cause I'm afraid to make mistakes
                                                      How much is too safe?
B Db Ebm7
If you ever left me
                                                      [Refrão Final]
         Abm7
                                                                   B Db Ebm7
That would be my first heartbreak
                                                      'Cause for the first time I get worried
                                                            B Db Ebm7
                                                      When I'm looking in your eyes
Ooh ooh, ooh ooh
B Db Ebm7
                                                             B Db
                                                                        Ebm7
                                                      That one day you might leave me
Ooh ooh, ooh ooh
B Db Ebm7
                                                           Abm7 Gb
                                                      And it keeps me up at night
If you ever left me
                                                              B Db Ebm7
        Abm7
That would be my first heartbreak
                                                      I guess that means I really love you
                                                          B Db
                                                      'Cause I'm afraid to make mistakes
[Segunda Parte]
                                                      B Db Ebm7
       B Db
                                                      If you ever left me
                Fbm7
Maybe I shouldn't be thinking
                                                               Abm7
B Db Ebm7
                                                      That would be my first heartbreak
So far ahead
   B Db Ebm7
                                                      B Db Ebm7
Better just enjoy this moment
                                                      Ooh ooh, ooh ooh
      Abm7
                                                      B Db Ebm7
And be happy for what I get
                                                      Ooh ooh, ooh ooh
                                                      B Db Ebm7
If you ever left me
              Db
But you know it's not that easy
B Db Ebm7
                                                              Abm7
                                                      That would be my first heartbreak
To get out of my head
Acordes
```