

Trixie Mattel - Moving Parts

No one gave a warning to breaking of your heart
Intro: D G D G A D
                                                              Pick up all the pieces and go back to the start
Living's like a jigsaw, and the farther in you go
                                                              Never losing, only using all your moving parts
                                                                    C
If you?re missing pieces, never really know
                                                              All your moving parts
If you?re ticking like a time piece, on which you can't rely
                                                              ( G D G Bm A G )
                                                              ( G D A G )
Wonder why you wind it when you're running out of time
                                                              (Gm D A Bm)
Sometimes there's a danger of choking on the parts
                                                                            D
                                                              And even in the morning, when the sun's behind the clouds
No one gave a warning to breaking of your heart
                                                              In the state you're born in, in the state that you?re in now
Pick up all the pieces and go back to the start
                                                              (Massachusetts)
                                                              Even if the roof is leaking, it's still above your head
Never losing, only using all your moving parts
All your moving parts
                                                              Just remember two words that the two birds never said
Living's s'posed to kill you, but it shouldn?t feel like dying
                                                             Sometimes there's a danger of choking on the parts
                                    Em
                                                                                        Bm
Loving's s'posed to fill you, but it spills you like you're
                                                              No one gave a warning to breaking of your heart
                                                              Pick up all the pieces and go back to the start
And all the paper people, wandering above
                                                              Never losing, only using all your moving parts
Wondering who made them and who's gonna cut them up
                                                             All your moving parts
Sometimes there's a danger of choking on the parts
