

Two Door Cinema Club - Are We Ready (Wreck)

```
[Refrão]
Intro: Gm Dm Bb Dm
                                                                Dm
Gm Dm C C
                                                                Oh, we've made a mistake
[Verso 1]
                                                                We've lost our minds
          Dm
Beyond the sacred cow
                                                                We've lost our memory
Stand up, take a bow, you're wonderful
                                                                Oh, what's it gonna take?
You should be comfortable, don't think at all
                                                                There's always something else
                                                                              C
Just don't think at all, think at all
                                                                So occupy yourself
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                                [Bridge]
                                                                Gm
Now, now you're digging a wreck
                                                                I saw the world today
             Bb
What will you write about?
                                                                It comes in green and gray
           Dm
How did you find that out?
                                                                Refrigerator humming
You get paid, don't need any respect
                                                                Chewing gum and instant karma
Senses fading, she's no lady
                                                                The wars are whoring
                                                                       Dm
[Refrão]
                                                                All the stores are bored with all your money
Oh, we've made a mistake
                                                                We follow what's to come
We've lost our minds
                                                                That's what they sold to me
               Bh
We've lost our memory
                                                                Instrumental
                                                                Gm Dm Bb Dm
Oh, what's it gonna take?
                                                                Gm Dm C C
                                                                [Pré-Refrão]
There's always something else
Waiting on the shelf
                                                                Now, now you're throwing the stone
                                                                          Bb
                                                                You never simplify
[Verso 2]
            Dm
                                                                        Dm
You could be president
                                                                Somebody stretch your eye
         Dm
You never paid the rent but I don't mind
                                                                What will you say with that mind of your own?
Gm
         Dm
You got no reason to learn what came first
                                                                Are we ready? Hold it steady
It can't be good enough, good enough
                                                                [Refrão]
[Pré-Refrão]
                                                                Oh, we've made a mistake
                                                                                               (Now, now you're throwing the stone)
Now, now you're throwing the stone
                                                                We've lost our minds
                                                                                               (You never simplify)
You never simplify
                                                                                                (Somebody stretch your eve)
                                                                We've lost our memory
       Dm
Somebody stretch your eye
                                                                                               (What will you say)
What will you say with that mind of your own?
                                                                Oh, what's it gonna take?
                                                                                                (With that mind of your own)
Are we ready? Hold it steady
                                                                There's always something else (Are we ready?)
                                                                Waiting on the shelf
                                                                                               (Hold it steady)
```

Acordes

